It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Mr. Speaker laid before the Senate the following message of his excellency the governor; which was read, viz :

To the General Assembly of the State of Illinois :

In transmitting to you the last communication which it will be my duty as the executive of the state to make to the legislature, I cannot avoid the expression of gratitude so devoutly due to that Providence which guides the destinies of men, for the prosperity and well being which abound on every hand; for the growing abundance which surrounds us; for the general health with which we have been so signally blessed; for the unmixed enjoyment of peace, contentment and happiness. Even in the midst of adverse elements, the hand of abundance has been opened upon the harvests of the husbandman. The firesides of the humble have been protected and happy, and everywhere throughout the state, labor is reaping a rich reward.

With these sentiments, and a deep sense of thankfulness towards a generous people for the confidence so freely extended, I am now about to surrender with cheerfulness to my successor and to you the trusts which have engaged my attention for the last four years. I do this the more cheerfully because I recognize in you and my successor, agents appointed by the people to receive them, and eminently qualified to keep and discharge them faithfully. I sunder the last official connections with her councils, with emotions of no ordinary character. Having very great confidence in the patriotism and capacity of the distinguished individual elected to become my successor, I invoke for you and him harmony in council and patriotism of purpose.

When first entering upon the duties of my present position, I felt called upon to express in very strong terms my views of the importance of fostering the internal improvements and general commercial interests of the state. The experience of the last four years, in which the policy has been liberally responded to by the legislature, has served to fully confirm the most sanguine expectations. Looking upon the despondency of the past, we scarcely dared to hope for what was then really palpable to the mind for the future. The estimates of my first message were made with a caution tempered by the adversity which our state had experienced for years, and they were even then, as I apprehend, generally received as too flattering for confident reliance. I am happy to be able to say that thus far all my estimates have been more than realized. More of the public debt has been liquidated than I dared to hope. Those estimates were based upon the statement of the public debt by my predecessor, but some errors, since discovered, increase its amount. They were based upon the revenue law as it then stood, but the legislature has since much reduced the rates of taxation. Notwithstanding these facts, the estimates are more than sustained; and if the present revenue law remain as it is, I have not the most distant doubt that the entire debt will be liquidated within seven years from this date, the time fixed for its fulfilment by those estimates.

The following is believed to be a correct statement, at the present time, of the public debt, giving a full exhibit of its situation from the time I was inaugurated to the first day of January, 1857:

It will be seen that during the four past years, four million, five hundred sixty-four thousand, eight hundred and forty dollars and forty cents has been paid in liquidation of the public debt, besides enough to pay the entire interest on the principal of the state debt during that time, being equal to one million, one hundred and forty-one thousand, two hundred and ten dollars paid each year the past four years, over and above paying an amount equal to each year's interest during same time.

The whole accruing interest for the past six months upon the debt of the state was paid on the first day of January, 1857, leaving in the treasury sixty-five thousand two hundred and five dollars of interest fund and one hundred and fifty thousand dollars of surplus revenue subject to be paid out in liquidation of interest as it accrues, July 1, 1857. There is now no doubt about the state being prepared to pay the interest upon her whole debt as it matures in future. The payment of interest for the past ten years having been only partially made each year to July last, it would seem but just that as the state is now paying her full accruing interest, that all arrears of interest should be funded and put in condition of other debts of the state. While the debt of the state is being rapidly extinguished, as above shown, the revenue of the state from various sources is more rapidly increasing.

There cannot be a doubt now entertained that this unusual prosperity is the result, in a very great measure, of that liberal spirit exhibited by the state towards the internal improvements, so necessary to her full development. Actuated by a wise and prudent economy the state promptly transferred to the Central Railroad Company a grant of land of over two millions and a half of acres, contracting for payment into the state treasury of seven per cent. of the gross proceeds of the road for all time to come. The wisdom of the act is seen in her already populated prairies, and flourishing cities where, four years ago, there was little but a wilderness. The state treasury is already beginning to feel its benefits by the increase of taxable property, and by the payment into the treasury by the company.

In addition to its value as a local improvement, its revenue is a subject of such magnitude as to command the constant supervision of the people's representatives and agents. They have paid to the company a large consideration. The road is yet in its infancy, and no one now living can approach any correct estimate of its future business. It affords a steady, safe and reliable income, which must annually increase for a considerable number of years. The lines of the company nearly traverse the length and breadth of the state. Through the agency of the contract she has the right of access to its books and information generally respecting its management and control. By being interested in its proceeds, she has the continued right to require the company to pursue the legitimate business for which it was created, and the means of detecting its deviations. She will thus always possess a moral power to prevent any abuse of its large franchises, if any should be attempted. While these rights are of any value to the state, she should not hesitate to turn a deaf ear to any proposition from whatever quarter, for any change or modification of that contract. I hazard nothing in saying that by the time the whole lines are completed the seven per cent. will pay the entire expense of the state government; and I am satisfied it will be an evil day when the representatives of the people shall consent to any proposition which may in any way affect an income so steady and reliable. It is among the brightest trophies remaining from her struggles with adversity, that as she is about to emerge from debt, she can relieve her people from the last dollar of taxation, with a revenue from this source sufficient to pay her annual expenses, and have the revenues of her canal for appropriation to such benevolent purposes as she may deem most beneficial to her people.

It is proper that I should say that no proposition has been made to me for any change or modification, nor do I know that such design exists in any quarter. Perhaps I ought further to say the subject has not been alluded to on account of any dereliction of duty on the part of the railroad company. On the contrary, I am happy to know their duties have generally been performed with a most rigid attention to their appropriate objects. Entrusted with the sale and disposition of a very large amount of territory, they have invariably been guided by principles of strict justice and even liberality towards all its purchasers. The road has thus far been well built, supplied with the best machinery, and operated with the most skilful and careful agencies. The state has received from this source, in all, up to the present time, the sum of one hundred seven thousand three hundred eighty-three dollars and twenty-five cents.

Under the date of December 25, 1856, I am furnished by Mr. Calhoun, assistant treasurer of the company, with a communication, from which I take the following statements:

Grant of land to the company.....	2,595,000 acres.
Amount now sold	843,184 "
Unsold	1,751,816 "
Number of miles completed.....	704
Receipts of the road for 1856.....	$2,403,950 25
Estimated for 1857.....	3,200,000 00
Rolling stock of the company—91 first class passenger and freight engines, 1620 freight cars, 62 passenger cars.
Cost of road estimated.....	$25,500,000 00

When the whole lines shall be completed, and by the terms of the charter the state is entitled to seven per cent., we may safely expect it to pay into the state treasury at least $200,000 the first year, the second year $250,000, and in five years after its completion it may be confidently relied on for $350,000, annually. The amount received, so far, from the Central Railroad is only five per cent. upon the gross proceeds of the earnings of the main trunk for eighteen months.

The limits of this communication will not permit me to refer to the other important railroads of the state, even by name. Four years ago there were less than 400 miles constructed. The amount now in operation will vary little from three thousand miles, penetrating almost every section and filling the country with activity and business. Most of the contemplated roads are in rapid progress of construction.

As a citizen of the state, I look upon her condition with unmingled pride and satisfaction. In a few short years she has risen, almost Phoenix-like, from a state of hopeless despondency to a most enviable position. In less than seven years she will be entirely free from debt. Her expenses will be paid without a dollar of taxes from her people, and she will have a large surplus revenue at her disposal. A brighter destiny, it seems to me, can hardly be the lot of any state. Upon another occasion I predicted that in 1870 she would be the first state in the Union, in point of population, intelligence and commercial facilities. This prediction is confirmed by every day's observation. Instead of a western state, she is beginning to assume her natural position in the centre. Instead of a frontier state, the illimitable and fertile plains are being settled beyond her western borders and sending their vast products through her channels of communication. Her peculiar geographical position must render her forever the great highway of commerce. The exceeding fertility of her soil will give her inexhaustible local wealth. Underlaid with immense coal fields, abounding in the ores of lead and iron and lime, her mineral wealth is beyond computation. Her coal and her water power afford facilities for manufactures enjoyed by few others. Almost surrounded and divided in the centre by navigable waters, her commercial advantages are unrivaled. In her broad and comprehensive system of schools, she is laying the foundation of the highest order of intellectual development. She is blessed with a temperate and salubrious climate. I am aware that the enumeration of so many advantages combined within the limits of a single state, almost has the appearance of a fancy sketch, yet I am satisfied they are not in the least degree overdrawn. They are natural, undeniable and permanent advantages. They present to her people the strongest incitements to that energy and thrift which are so certain of ample reward. They hold out to emigrants alluring inducements to find homes in regions so much favored. They invite capital by offering large and certain returns for its investment.

A triumphant vindication of the truth of these positions is found in the wonderful growth of her cities and villages. Many places of thousands of inhabitants are of less than four years' growth. Chicago, the commercial emporium, has outstripped the hopes of the wildest imagination. The apprehensions of narrow minded calculators that she must prove the victim of some improvement that did not directly reach her, have been dissipated, and she, as well as all other cities, has been able to thrive most under that policy which opened equally to all sections the opportunities of advancement. Her population which was, four years ago, set down at fifty thousand, is now over one hundred thousand, an increase of over one hundred per cent. in four years. It is not among the least interesting facts that she is now organizing direct lines of trade with Liverpool, through the St. Lawrence. Four years ago, according to the best estimates that could be made, her commerce did not exceed $20,000,000, and that was then considered a very liberal estimate. Now it will undoubtedly average $200,000,000. The importance of the great thoroughfares across the state can hardly be over estimated. From the extreme northern to the extreme southern sections they are stretched out like great arms to embrace the products of the west and conduct them in safety to their more eastern destination.

Terminating at Cairo in the south, the Central Railroad offers the connecting link, during a great portion of the year, between the Gulf of Mexico and the great chain of northern lakes. This point is so far south as to be very rarely impeded either by the ice of winter or low waters of summer. The completion of this road has already produced a magical influence upon the growth of the city of Cairo. Within four years her commerce has increased more than one hundred fold, and her population has more than doubled within the last year. I think the time is not far distant when this city will be to the southern portion of the state what Chicago is to the north. The exceeding fertility and beauty of this portion of Illinois are but just beginning to be opened to the admiration of the world. Like a sunbeam in the shades of the morning her railroads have unclosed to her a new and brilliant existence. The responsibility rests upon you so to direct these advantages as to secure with most certainty the foundation of enduring greatness.

On the first of January, 1855, intelligence was received from Julius Wadsworth, the interest-paying agent in New York, that he was obliged to close his house on account of the inability of his firm to meet their engagements, there then being a general money panic throughout the country. There was in his hands, at that time, belonging to the state, the sum of $226,643 25. As there was much doubt in the minds of many, and some of the journals of the day, professing to be fully informed, confidently stated that the state would lose that amount, I repaired, immediately on the close of the session of the legislature, to New York, taking with me the Hon. Uri Osgood, an attorney, and then a senator of the state, for the purpose of using every possible means to secure the interests of the state. The assignee informed me that the amount would be paid, provided the bond Mr. Wadsworth had given, with security, was valid and binding. I then instituted proceedings in the supreme court of this state against the securities, which court decided that the bond was valid and binding, but other pleas having been put in, the further disposition of the cause was, on the application of the securities, continued until the next term of the supreme court. After the above decision, another question still existed, in the opinion of the counsel I had employed on the part of the state, of considerable difficulty. My predecessor, who had appointed Mr. Wadsworth and taken the bond, in a few days after that appointment had made another appointment of Julius Wadsworth and James O. Sheldon, without requiring any new bond, and had paid over the money to them and had taken their receipts, and had made settlements with them during the balance of his term. The record of their appointment appeared in the issuing of a commission to them from the office of the secretary of state. When I entered upon the duties of the office, I found, on examination, a bond on file, given by F. C. Sherman, Thomas Dyer, Mark Skinner, Hugh T. Dickey and E. S. Wadsworth, as securities for the faithful performance of Julius Wadsworth as state interest-paying agent. I also found another bond, of the same date, signed by Julius Wadsworth, with James O. Sheldon, conditioned for the faithful performance of Julius Wadsworth, as agent, &c. From what was on file in the office, and from what was told me by my predecessor, I regarded Julius Wadsworth as the agent. I looked upon the bond as ample and safe, secured as well as could be with the same number of names in the state. I was told, on entering the office, that the practice had been to send the money on from time to time to the agent, as it was collected—that the vault in the state house was not considered very safe. I was told the agent did not charge any fees or commissions, and exchange was saved. I was informed that Mr. Robert Irwin was authorized to receive the money for Mr. Wadsworth, and on my first offer to pay him, he produced and offered me the receipt of Wadsworth & Sheldon for the same, which I declined to receive, and refused to pay him the money until he sent to New York and procured the receipt of Julius Wadsworth. I did not then anticipate the difficulty which afterwards occurred from the failure of Wadsworth & Sheldon, but took that course because it appeared to me the proper manner to do the public business. There is probably but little doubt that had any other course been taken, the securities of Julius Wadsworth would have been released. Whether they were not released by the appointment of Wadsworth & Sheldon was the question pending in the supreme court, about which the counsel for the state had considerable difficulty. Before the next term of the court, however, Mr. Wadsworth proposed to pay the interest funds in his hands, in the indebtedness of the state, dollar for dollar. After full consultation, and the expression (in writing) to me of the doubts of the counsel of the state, I concluded it was much safer for the state to make the proposed settlement, and I authorized the state treasurer to receive the indebtedness and receipt for it, which was done, and the whole is now deposited in his office. Although this arrangement has had the effect to apply the interest fund to a different object from that intended by the law, still the state has not lost any thing by it. Had it been applied, as by law it should have been, to the payment of interest, it could only have paid so many dollars of interest, while the bonds, being on interest, are canceled, and that interest is stopped. In this manner it counts the state $7,500 more, each year, as long as the bonds run, than it would have done if it had been applied to the interest according to the requirements of the law. I had placed other moneys, arising from the land fund and surplus revenue, in the hands of Wadsworth & Sheldon, for which I had taken no security. This has all been paid to me and settled with the state.

It was undoubtedly an error to place funds which were to be relied upon to meet certain payments on a certain day, in the hands of any one who could use them in his own private business. That, however, I apprehend, was an error of the law and not of its administration. It is impossible to make a special deposit without the depositories having the power to use the money if they desire to do so. It may not be unreasonable to suppose that from the nature of the arrangement made by my predecessor with Julius Wadsworth, that he should charge the state nothing for his services, provided funds were placed in his hands from thirty to sixty days before they were required to pay the interest; that Mr. Wadsworth supposed that the state expected him to have the use of the funds in the meantime. The state is now paying between six and seven thousand dollars each year for the same services performed by Mr. Wadsworth for nothing. This sum would more than defray the expense of an agency authorized, which could be made responsible and secured by ample bonds. It is submitted to you whether safety to the finances of the state and punctuality in paying of interest do not require that such legal agency should be established.

I beg leave to solicit your attention to the operation of the revenue law, as it now exists, upon those incorporations whose business pervades a large section of the state. It appears to me to operate so unequally as to require modification. I can see no justice in allowing the county through which a railroad passes to derive all the benefits of its taxation, while a neighboring county, having no railroad, is deprived, not only of its conveniences and the increase in value of property, but also of all advantages of taxation. A railroad can hardly be said to have a local character. Usually it stretches through many counties, and nearly all that is local of its character is its right of way along its track. It is only by the merest fiction that its value can be estimated by any assessor. At one point its erections may be worth a million of dollars, at another but a few thousand. Its cars, of the value of hundreds of thousands of dollars, may be one day in one county and the next day in another. The same considerations apply equally to the banking incorporations of the state. Their offices have, it is true, a definite location, but their securities—their main property—are on deposit at the seat of government, and their circulation is scattered throughout the state. I would not advocate the passage of any measure, which could in the least reduce the revenues arising from taxation of these important interests. They are all doing a profitable business, and should contribute liberally towards supporting the burdens of the government. But it is most respectfully submitted, whether a much more just and equal operation of the revenue system would not be obtained by taxing them wholly for purposes responding portion of the state taxes. They could be required to pay their taxes directly into the state treasury, and a large percentage for their collection would thus be saved.

The revenue of the Illinois and Michigan canal will not vary much from $150,000 the present year, net proceeds for tolls. Not having the official report there may be some slight variation. Although the navigation of the canal has labored under much embarrassment from the low stage of the water, and its business has been greatly lessened in consequence of the interruption of navigation upon the Illinois and Mississippi rivers, still its revenue is very satisfactory. It displays the excellent management of the trustees who have had it in charge, and guarantees to the state a large income for the future. When the state debt shall be wholly extinguished, and the revenue be paid directly into the state treasury, the amount from this source and from the Central railroad may be confidently relied upon to pay all the expenses of the state government, and give to the state ample means for appropriation to such charitable and beneficial objects as the requirements of civil government may present. The watchfulness and care of those who have the interests of the state in charge should be continually invoked to see that these important revenues be in no way impaired. If carefully preserved they must ever stand as safe bulwarks between the people and taxation.

Among the most important duties which I felt incumbent upon me, at the commencement of my official term, was a recommendation of an entire remodification of the school laws, and the establishment of a complete system of free schools, based upon the school fund and taxation upon property. This recommendation was liberally acted upon by the legislature, and a system established which has been eminently successful. In some of its minor details, perhaps, the law may be so amended as to better adapt it to the wishes of the people; and your careful attention is solicited to that subject. It is of small service that we enumerate the proofs of physical well being, if the intellectual development of the rising generation is overlooked and neglected. In this department no system should be considered complete that does not place within the reach of every child in the state, the free and open opportunity to acquire such an education as to fit him for every calling and trust in life. There are now few individuals who deny the principle, that the property of the country should educate its children. This principle having been fully adopted by the law in force, it is reasonable to expect, that if persevered in till the plan is fully comprehended and understood, we shall have a school system which very few of the people would willingly dispense with. Under it, the duties of the superintendent are arduous and incessant. Being required to visit every county, his expenses can come very little short of the amount of his compensation. I would suggest the fixing of such a compensation as would command the best qualifications in the state, and justify the giving of his whole time and attention to the duties of his office. The labor required at the hands of the present incumbent has been very great. The whole details of a new system devolved upon him, and he has been frequently called upon for the exercise of great prudence in meeting and removing objections, originating from continued habit under a different system, and sometimes under no system at all. I am satisfied he has been indefatigable in his exertions to give value and uniformity to the system, and to render it acceptable to the people. One of the most interesting and immediate effects of the new law is the increase in the number of scholars taught. In the year 1853 the number of scholars, as it appears by the returns, was 136,371 attending school. In 1856, 312,393 are reported; an increase of more than one hundred per cent. in two years. Although the reports of the several years are not entirely full, yet it is believed the relative proportion would not be materially changed if the returns were complete and perfect. The results are such as to prove conclusively that a new era is begun in the education of the state. For the details of the system, you are referred to the report of the superintendent.

As intimately connected with this subject, I beg leave to invite your especial attention to the importance of some provision for the care and charge of those juvenile delinquents, whose offences can now be punished only in the same manner as old and hardened offenders. The law which provides, that, if under eighteen years of age, they shall be imprisoned in the county jail, instead of the penitentiary, can hardly be esteemed a modification. In either case they are liable to be immediately thrown into companionship with offenders, who can exercise no other influence over them than to prepare them for greater crimes. Instead of such moral abandonment, all the better sympathies of our nature seem to appeal to us to use our powers in arresting their career of error, and place their destiny in a better path. Almost invariably, it will be found, that they are youth who are either bereft of parents and friends, or who have parents too abandoned in morals to exercise a proper guardianship over their children. It is a melancholy duty of the ministers of the law to be compelled to deal out the ordinary punishment for crimes to youth who know so little of their moral responsibility. The experiment has been tried in many sections, and it has invariably been found, that suitable reform schools, under the superintendence of judicious persons, have been able to reclaim nearly all who have been sentenced to their custody. Most of their convicts have been found entirely without the first rudiments of learning, and with very few moral principles.

A majority of them are such as have no friends or means of support. The system found most beneficial has been to keep them in a school establishment, under proper regulations, where their morals are regarded, and appeals continually made to their domestic affections. A system of labor is established in connection with their training, which gives them habits of industry. Certain hours are daily devoted to their education. They are introduced to the enjoyments of the family circle and continually kept under the guidance of moral influences. As soon as they are thought to be sufficiently reclaimed they are apprenticed out to judicious persons, at a distance from the scenes of their former career, and by this means are restored to the ranks of honor and respectability. I have been politely favored with the first report of a school of this character, established under the auspices of the city government of Chicago. It is now entirely a city institution, but I see no reason why its beneficial influences may not be extended throughout the state. If satisfactory arrangements can be made with the city authorities I recommend the appropriation from the state treasury of such amount as may be deemed necessary, and that all juvenile delinquents be sent to that institution from all portions of the state whenever the courts in which they shall be arraigned shall deem them the proper objects of such an institution. The vicissitudes of emigration, the accidents upon the waters and the land, and the fearful epidemics which, for a few years past, have been permitted to sweep with such terrible force over the face of the earth, have made many family circles desolate, and thrown a countless number of orphans upon the charities of a strange land. No philanthropy can be misplaced which picks up these germs of manhood and conducts them in the walks of respectability and usefulness. In the interesting report above alluded to, the following facts appear :

Sixty-six children were committed during the year for the following causes :

Without parental care, 9; assault, 3; vagrancy, 8; drunkenness, 2; gambling, 2; street riot, 5; grand larceny, 4; petit larceny, 23; mail robbery, 1; uncontrollable, 6; suspected of burglary, 2; obtaining money on false pretences, 1. Total, 66.

Their place of nativity was as follows :

United States, 34; Ireland, 13; Germany, 13, Bohemia, 1; Wales, 1; Upper Canada, 1; Lower Canada, 2; New Foundland, 1. Total, 66.

Of the above number forty-eight had lost one or both parents—the same number had no stated employment—thirty-four were accustomed to the use of intoxicating drinks; thirty were children of intemperate parents, and thirty-nine had been accustomed to sleep in barns, merchandise boxes, and under bridges. Twenty-four could read some in books, and fifteen could write.

The city of Chicago has shown an energy in regard to her internal government which well deserves the encouragement of the state. It is the natural consequence of such unexampled growth that she should be infested with marauders steeped in every grade of crime; yet she has preserved unparalleled good order. She has an organized police renowned throughout the country for its energy and expertness. Not only does she thus secure and punish her own offenders, but her police is very frequently put in requisition to secure offenders from other sections of the country. Her establishment of a reform school is an evidence of the high moral tone of her councils and her people, and well deserves encouragement from the state.

In my former communication I invited the attention of the legislature to the agricultural interests of the state. I beg leave to refer you to my previous suggestions upon this subject, and to urge, in the strongest light, those interests to your careful consideration. I apprehend no acts of the legislature have been more generally acceptable to the people than the appropriations heretofore made for their encouragement. I think I may safely add, that no appropriations have been more faithfully or judiciously applied to the objects intended. I have already referred to the fertility of the soil as one of the elements of greatness for our state. She has scarcely an acre of waste land, and, when all the contemplated improvements are completed, every acre will be convenient to market. Her present large farms are capable of extensive subdivision, and the climate and soil are so capable of production that a very few acres of ground will be found adequate to the support of a family. I apprehend the time has come in the history of the state when she may safely take a position in relation to this interest which shall be commensurate with its importance. In view of our present condition, if my power was limited, at the present time, to a single recommendation, I think I should urge upon you to base the great industrial interests of the state upon the same liberal principles which now characterize the educational system. Education and labor, which were once deemed almost incompatible, should go hand in hand. Agriculture is the life of commerce. It is the food of business upon railroads and rivers and lakes and in cities. It must necessarily be one of the great foundation stones of the prosperity of this state. It must enter largely into the basis of all calculations of a dense population. Sufficiently removed from the ordinary incitements to vice and excess, the farming population are the great bulwark of safety in the hour of peril or threatened degeneracy. They are safer for defence than standing armies, and better depositories of a nation's wealth than national treasuries. I would place this great feature of our state upon a basis which would not only bring its operations in generous rivalry with each other, but I would also bring their productions into proud competition with the world. The starting point has already been gained by the organization of state and county agricultural societies, and it remains for you to give them greater efficiency. Like every other public measure, to be effectual this should be a system. It should be permanent and vigorous. I recommend the passage of a bill giving to the state society all the corporate and police powers necessary to the full accomplishment of its objects, protection of its property and enforcement of its rules of order.

The observation of the last three years satisfies me that the location of its state fairs should be permanent. This proposition, at first thought, may meet with disfavor, but I am satisfied no other course can render it such an exhibition of the agriculture of the state as the people ought to demand. Its erections and fixtures should be ample, and upon the rotary system would require the outlay of greater expense than would be within the means of the society. Besides, all exhibitors throughout the state and the world should know the place of exhibition, and become accustomed to the channels by which it could be reached. Much more would result from this than might at first be supposed. In conjunction with this I would recommend the connection of a department of agriculture with the state department, at the head of which should be placed the president or some other officer of the state society, and make it his duty, among other things, to collect and transmit agricultural information and statistics, looking to the advancement of agriculture as a science. This plan contemplates, in the future, when the circumstances of the state society are such as to justify it, an experimental farm, of a high order. County societies should be made strictly auxiliary, and should also possess necessary corporate and police powers. To carry out this system I would recommend the annual payment, out of the state treasury, of $10,000 to the state and $500 each, to the county societies, payable on condition that each of the societies raise an equal or greater amount, to be expended in premiums. I would also recommend the annual appropriation of not less than $10,000 to the agricultural department, to defray the expenses of the office and the statistics. I am confident the amount will soon be returned to the treasury, in the increased value of taxable property, in consequence of the adoption of such a system. You would hold out new inducements to spirited and energetic farmers to make their homes in and devote their lives to a state which displayed its liberality and appreciation of their calling. You would create a more dense population by doing away with the necessity for large farms, and by more careful husbandry producing better results from diminished territory. You would greatly add to the value of farms by developing more fully their power of production. You would make the laborer happy by bringing his works to the eye and approval of the world. You would raise the standard value of the state in the estimate of the people at large, and make her worthy of being the centre of this vast republican system. I make these suggestions to you with the strongest confidence in the ability of the state and the people to carry them out, and most earnestly hope they may receive your favorable consideration and action.

The proposition to call a convention to propose amendments to the constitution having failed for the want of the votes required by that instrument, it becomes an important subject of inquiry whether any means are left in your power, consistent with its provisions, for avoiding some of the evils imposed by its present operation. It is not to be denied that the legislature of the state is rendered not only inadequate but extremely hazardous under the present restricted sessions. To avoid the absolute denial of rights for want of time, practices of hasty legislation have been adopted, which cannot be long continued without leading to disastrous results. As I have before remarked, a poor man can rarely afford to be a member of the legislature, and the halls will be liable to be filled by members who are anxious to procure legislation for their own personal advantage. The mind naturally turns away from the contemplation of the evils which must soon grow out of such a system. Several able and competent judges of the supreme and circuit courts have resigned on account of the entire inadequacy of the compensation. Others are proposing to resign, when it is believed it will be difficult, if not impossible, to find persons of proper qualifications to fill their places. Many remain in their positions in consequence of the earnest solicitation of the public, and are themselves experiencing that injustice which they are unwilling to see administered to others. If long continued, the consequence must be that these responsible places will be filled by individuals who would not be selected by the people on account of their fitness and qualifications. Such evils strike at the very foundation of good government. It is an example of injustice in itself for the government to require the services of agents without any adequate compensation. The subject is left for your consideration, without any recommendation on my part, but as one which demands your most earnest solicitude.

I beg leave to refer you to the suggestions of a former message in relation to the construction of a penitentiary in the northern portion of the state. Nothing has occurred to change the views then expressed, but subsequent experience has fully confirmed the opinion that the measure is demanded by the public interests. There are now in the penitentiary at Alton more than five hundred convicts. This number is greater than can be kept there with economy and a proper attention to that moral regimen which is one of the chief benefits of the penitentiary system. For the last year the expense of transporting convicts from Cook county alone has been greater than from all the other counties of the state.

You are referred with satisfaction to the reports of the officers having charge of the charitable institutions at Jacksonville. It gives me pleasure to be able to say that the difficulties which for a time embarrassed their administration have entirely disappeared. There is the utmost harmony among all the officers, and the institutions are in a prosperous condition. You are referred to their reports for the number of their inmates and their financial condition. No citizen of the state can fail to feel a just pride in the reflection that while she has been so much embarrassed in her financial condition she has still been able to rear institutions of a character so creditable, and to throw light on the pathway of those unfortunate persons whose eyes are closed against the light of heaven, whose ears are dead to the voice of language or sound, and whose minds are disorganized by a terrible malady.

I have purposely confined myself, in this communication, to a few recommendations which I have deemed important, and have, as far as was compatible with my own sense of duty, left the general future policy of the state to be more fully embraced by my successor, whose long and able services in the public councils give me great confidence that the energies of the state will be so directed that her present prosperity will continue for many years to come. My official connection with her interests commenced in a humble sphere, in the darkest hour of her history, when many of her people were deserting her, and emigrants were avoiding her under the apprehension that she must necessarily be a bankrupt and repudiating state. I have lived to see those dark clouds dispelled, and behold her on the high road of prosperity. I see her debt in such a process of liquidation that it is scarcely longer regarded. I see her opened, in every direction, to the avenues of business. I see her cities rapidly rising up in every section of her territory. I see her marts of commerce thronged with life and activity. I see her prairies subdued by the industrious husbandman, and her workshops filled with skilful artisans. I see her schools established on a broad and philanthropic basis. I see her people free and happy. I lay down the cares of office with cheerfulness, and surrender the responsible interests of the state into the hands of my successor and yourselves, with the prayer upon my heart that her progress may continue, and her people, for a long time in the future, live in the enjoyment of republican freedom, prosperity and happiness.

Mr. Kuykendall, from the select committee to which had been referred the rules and regulations reported to the Senate by the speaker, together with the motion of Mr. Kuykendall for the adoption of the rules of the last Senate, made the following report; which was read, viz:

CONSTITUTIONAL RULES.

1. Two-thirds of the Senate shall constitute a quorum, but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day and compel the attendance of absent members.

2. The Senate shall keep a journal of its proceedings and publish them. The yeas and nays of the members on any question shall, at the desire of any two of them, be entered on the journals.

3. Any two members of the Senate shall have liberty to dissent and protest against any act or resolution, which they may think injurious to the public or to any individual, and have the reasons of their dissent entered on the journals.

4. The Senate may punish its members for disorderly behavior, and with the concurrence of two-thirds of all the members elected expel a member, but not a second time for the same cause; and the reason for such expulsion shall be entered upon the journal, with the names of the members voting on the question.

5. The Senate, during its session, may punish by imprisonment, any person not a member, who shall be guilty of disrespect to the same, by any disorderly or contemptuous behavior in their presence: Provided, such imprisonment shall not at any one time exceed twenty-four hours.

6. The doors of the Senate and of the committee of the whole shall be kept open, except in such cases as in the opinion of the house require secrecy.

7. The Senate shall not adjourn without the consent of the House of Representatives for more than two days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

8. The vote on the final passage of all bills shall be by ayes and noes, and shall be entered on the journal, and no bill shall become a law without the concurrence of a majority of all the senators elect.

9. Every bill shall be read on three different days, unless, in case of urgency, three-fourths of the Senate shall deem it expedient to dispense with this rule.

10. The lieutenant governor shall by virtue of his office be speaker of the Senate, and have the right when in committee of the whole, to debate and vote on all subjects, and whenever the Senate are equally divided, to give the casting vote.

DUTIES OF THE SPEAKER.

11. He shall take the chair every day precisely at the hour to which the Senate shall have adjourned; shall immediately call the members to order, and on the appearance of a quorum shall cause the journal of the preceding day to be read; and in all cases in the absence of a quorum, the members present may take such measures as shall be necessary to procure the attendance of absent members and the speaker, with the consent of the members present, or in the absence of the speaker, any senator called to the chair may adjourn from day to day until a quorum shall be present.

12. He shall preserve decorum and order; may speak to points of order, in preference to other members, rising from his seat for that purpose, and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the Senate by any two members; on which appeal no member shall speak more than once, unless by leave of the Senate.

13. He shall rise to put a question, but may state it sitting.

14. Questions shall be distinctly put in this form, viz: "As many as are of the opinion that—(as the case may be,) say Aye;" and, after the affirmative voice is expressed, "As many as are of a contrary opinion, say No." If the speaker doubt, or a division be called for, the Senate shall divide: those in the affirmative shall first rise from their seats, and afterwards those in the negative. If the speaker still doubt or a count be required, the speaker shall name two members—one from each side—to tell the members in the affirmative; which being reported, he shall then name two others—one from each side—to tell those in the negative; which being also reported, he shall rise and state the division of the Senate.

15. The speaker shall examine and correct the journal before it be read; he shall have a general direction of the hall; he shall have a right to name any member to perform the duties of the chair, but such substitution shall not extend beyond an adjournment; and such substitute shall be vested during such time with all the powers of the speaker, and shall not lose the right of voting on any question while so presiding.

16. All committees shall be appointed by the speaker, unless otherwise specially directed by the Senate, in which case they shall be appointed by ballot; and if upon such ballot the number required shall not be elected by a majority of the votes given, the Senate shall proceed to a second ballot, in which a plurality of votes shall prevail; and in case a greater number than is required to compose or complete a committee shall have an equal number of votes, the Senate shall proceed to a further ballot or ballots.

17. In case of any disturbance or disorderly conduct in the lobby, the speaker (or chairman of the committee of the whole senate) shall have power to order the same to be cleared.

18. The speaker shall assign to the sergeants-at-arms, and their assistants, their respective duties and stations.

OF DECORUM AND DEBATE.

19. When any member is about to speak in debate, or deliver any matter to the Senate, he shall rise from his seat and address himself to "Mr. Speaker." (not moving on the floor.) and shall confine himself to the question on debate, and avoid personality.

20. If any member in speaking (or otherwise) transgress the rules of the Senate, the speaker shall or any member may call him to order, and in which case the member so called to order shall immediately sit down, unless permitted to explain, and the Senate, if appealed to, decide on the case, but without debate. If the decision be in favor of the member called to order, he shall be at liberty to proceed; if otherwise, and the case require it, he shall be liable to the censure of the Senate.

21. If a member be called to order for words spoken in debate, the person calling him to order shall repeat the words excepted to, and they shall be taken down in writing at the clerk's table; and no member shall be held to answer or be subject to the censure of the Senate for words spoken in debate, if any member has spoken or other business has intervened after the words spoken, and before exception to them shall have been taken.

22. When two or more members happen to rise at once, the speaker shall name the member who is first to speak.

23. No member shall speak more than twice to the same question without leave of the Senate, nor more than once until every member choosing to speak shall have spoken.

24. While the speaker is putting any question or addressing the Senate, no member shall walk out of or across the room, nor in such case, or when a member is speaking, shall entertain private discourse, nor when a member is speaking shall pass between him and the chair.

25. Every member who shall be in the Senate when a question is put, shall give his vote, unless the Senate shall, for special reasons, excuse him.

26. No member shall be permitted to vote on any question unless within the bar when his name is called.

27. No motion shall be entertained and debated until the same shall be seconded.

28. When a motion is made and seconded, it shall be stated by the speaker, or, being in writing, shall be handed to the secretary, and read aloud before debate.

29. Every motion shall be reduced to writing, if the speaker or any member desire it.

30. When the yeas and nays shall be taken on any question, no member shall be permitted to vote after the decision is announced from the chair unless by the unanimous consent of the Senate.

31. After a motion is stated by the speaker, or read by the secretary, it shall be deemed in the possession of the Senate, but may be withdrawn at any time before decision or amendment.

32. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received but to adjourn, to call the house, to lay on the table, the previous question, to postpone indefinitely, to postpone to a day certain, to commit or to amend; which several motions shall have precedence in the order they stand arranged.

33. A motion for adjournment shall always be in order, and be decided, as well as the motion to lay on the table, without debate.

34. No motion to postpone to a day certain or indefinitely, or to commit, being decided, shall be again allowed on the same day and at the same stage of the bill or proposition.

35. A motion to strike out the enacting words of a bill shall have precedence of a motion to amend, and, if carried, shall be deemed equivalent to its rejection.

36. When a blank is to be filled and different sums or times are proposed, the question shall first be put on the largest sum and longest time.

37. No person shall be permitted to smoke in the senate chamber, or to give any signs of approbation or disapprobation, either on the floor or in the lobby.

38. After the speaker has called the Senate to order each day, there shall be no reading of newspapers or other documents that do not immediately concern the business for which the Senate is convened.

39. It shall be the duty of the secretary to keep a book in which he can seasonably record the motions, resolutions, rules and decisions of the Senate, and to do and perform all such other acts appertaining to his office as may be required of him by the Senate or its presiding officer.

40. It shall be the duty of the sergeant-at-arms to attend the Senate during its sittings, to execute the commands of the Senate from time to time, together with all such process, issued by authority thereof, as shall be directed to him by the speaker.

The following standing committees shall be appointed, with leave to report by bill or otherwise:

1. On the judiciary.
2. On finance.
3. On banks and corporations.
4. On internal improvements.
5. On education.
6. On canal and canal lands.
7. On internal navigation.
8. On public roads.
9. On public accounts and expenditures.
10. On township organization.
11. On elections.
12. On petitions.
13. On state institutions, buildings and grounds.
14. On military affairs.
15. On agriculture.
16. On saline and swamp lands.
17. On enrolled bills.

Whenever a report or reports shall hereafter be made by a joint committee of the two houses, immediately after the reading of such report it shall be transmitted to the other house, and being there read, or its reading dispensed with, it shall be taken by the clerk or secretary to the house to which the report was first made.

All resolutions presented to the Senate shall lie one day on the table, unless otherwise ordered.

If the question in debate contains several points, any member may have the same divided; but on a motion to strike out and insert, it shall not be in order to move for a division of the question; but the rejection of a motion to strike out and insert one proposition shall not prevent a motion to strike out and insert a different proposition, nor prevent a subsequent proposition simply to strike out; nor shall the rejection of a motion simply to strike out prevent a subsequent motion to strike out and insert.

The unfinished business in which the Senate was engaged at the last preceding adjournment shall have the preference in the special orders of the day.

When a question has been once made and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for any member of the majority to move for a reconsideration thereof; but no motion for the reconsideration of any vote shall be in order after a bill, resolution, message, report, amendment or motion, upon which the vote was taken, shall have gone out of the possession of the senate, announcing their decision; nor shall any motion for reconsideration be in order unless within the next day of actual session of the Senate thereafter. Such motion shall take precedence of all other questions except a motion to adjourn.

No bill shall be committed or amended until it shall have been twice read.

No amendment shall be in order at the third reading of a bill, resolution or motion, requiring three readings, unless by unanimous consent of the members present; but it shall be at all times in order before the final passage of such bill, resolution or motion, to move its commitment.

After commitment of such bill, resolution or motion, if any amendment be reported by the committee, the same shall be again read a second time, and shall then be put on its engrossment and third reading, as in other cases.

When motions are made for reference of the same subject to a select committee and to a standing committee, the question in reference to standing committee shall be first put.

Upon the call of the Senate the names of the members shall be called over by the clerk, and the absentees noted; after which the names of the absentees shall again be called over. The doors shall then be closed, and those for whom no excuse or insufficient excuses are made, may, by order of those present, if a quorum, be taken into custody as they appear, or may be sent for and taken into custody wherever to be found by the sergeant-at-arms of the Senate.

No amendment, by way of rider, shall be received to any bill, on its third reading.

In forming a committee of the whole house the speaker shall leave the chair, and a chairman to preside in committee shall be appointed by the speaker.

Upon bills being committed to a committee of the whole house, the bill shall be first read throughout by the clerk, and then again read and debated by clauses, leaving the preamble to be considered last. After report of said committee the bill or motion shall again be subject to be debated or amended before a question to engross is taken.

The rules of proceedings of the Senate shall be observed in a committee of the whole Senate.

The rules of parliamentary practice comprised in Jefferson's Manual shall govern the Senate in all cases in which they are applicable and not inconsistent with the standing rules and orders of the Senate.

A motion to commit, until it is decided, shall preclude all amendments and debate on the main question; and a motion to postpone a question indefinitely or to a day certain, until it is decided, shall preclude all amendment on the main question.

Upon a motion to reconsider the vote on a final passage of any bill, a majority of all the members elect shall be required to reconsider the same.

If a bill shall fail to pass on account of not having received a constitutional majority, any senator having voted in the negative shall have a right to move a reconsideration.

No motion or proposition on a subject different from that under consideration shall be admitted under color of amendment.

No rule of the Senate shall be altered, suspended or rescinded, without the vote of two-thirds of the members present.

No person except members of the House of Representatives and their officers, heads of executive departments of this state, chaplains, judges of the U. States, and supreme and circuit judges of this state, former governors and lieutenant governors of this state, governors for the time being of any state or territory of the Union, shall be admitted within the hall of the Senate.

8. Reading bills of the Senate the second time.
9. Reading bills from the House of Representatives the third time.
10. Reading bills from the House of Representatives the second time.
11. Messages from the House of Representatives.

And when the Senate shall have passed from one order to another, no action shall be had upon the orders passed, except by leave of the Senate, and to give this leave two-thirds of the senators present must concur.

They shall exercise a vigilant superintendence over the room wherein bills are engrossed, and exclude the access to all unauthorized persons to such room.

All officers appointed by the Senate shall take an oath, as prescribed by the constitution, and also an oath of office when admitted and before they enter upon the performance of their respective official duties.

OF THE PREVIOUS QUESTION.

The previous question shall be always in order, and shall be put in this form, "Shall the main question be now put?" and until it is decided, shall preclude all amendment or debate.

When on taking the previous question, the Senate shall decide that the main question shall not now be put, the main question shall be considered as still remaining under debate.

The effects of the main question being ordered shall be to put an end to all debate, and bring the Senate to a direct vote, first upon all amendments reported or pending, being first applied to the amendment last moved, and then on the main question.

After the motion for the previous question has prevailed, it shall not be in order to call the Senate prior to a decision of the main question.

OF EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATIONS AND NOMINATIONS.

Messages from the governor and communications from state officers may be received at any time, except when the speaker is putting a question, or the yeas and noes are being called, and upon motion, may be considered at any time.

The consideration of executive business shall take place with open doors, unless otherwise ordered by a majority of the senators present.

If the Senate receives any nomination, the speaker shall put the following question: "Does the Senate advise and consent to the nomination just made?" and any nomination may be referred to a standing or select committee, and while any nomination remains with the Senate, it shall be in order to reconsider any vote taken thereon.

TWO O'CLOCK P. M.

Senate met, pursuant to adjournment.

A message from the House of Representatives, by W. C. B. Gillespie, their assistant clerk:

Mr. President: I am directed to inform the Senate that the House of Representatives has passed the following resolution, viz:

Resolved by the House of Representatives, That the clerk inform the Senate that the House is now ready to receive the Senate in joint session for the purpose of waiting upon Gov. Bissell and inaugurating him into office.

Whereupon, the Senate, preceded by their speaker, repaired to the hall of the House of Representatives, where they were joined by the members and the officers of the House, and thence marched in a body to the mansion of the governor, in the city of Springfield, at which place the oath of office was duly administered to his excellency William H. Bissell, governor elect, by the Hon. Walter B. Scates, one of the judges of the supreme court of the state of Illinois.

After which, the Senate and House again repaired to the hall of the House of Representatives, and the Hon. John Wood, lieutenant governor elect, having been sworn into office by the Hon. Walter B. Scates, chief justice of the supreme court of the state of Illinois,

Mr. Diller, at the request of the governor, read to the General Assembly the following inaugural address:

To the General Assembly of the State of Illinois:

The relation which the people of the state have established between you and me, makes it my duty, from time to time, to give you information of the state of the government and recommend to your consideration such measures as I may deem expedient.

The very able and elaborate message of my distinguished predecessor delivered to you at the commencement of your present session, relieves me of the necessity of saying much that I otherwise might have found it incumbent upon me to lay before you. With the suggestions and recommendations contained in that message, I fully concur.

The general prosperity of our state at the present time, should elicit our warmest gratitude toward the Great Author of all our blessings. Good health, peace and unexampled prosperity prevail throughout our borders—and every legitimate branch of business is prosecuted with a success hitherto scarcely dreamed of.

Agriculture may be regarded as the foundation of all our prosperity. In this state in the Union, no country on the globe is more favored by nature for the successful pursuit of agriculture than Illinois. Agriculture, however, like many of our other interests, requires, at present, for its successful and complete development, the fostering care of the government; and I recommend the appropriation of reasonable amount for the purpose of aiding the efforts that are being made by the State Agricultural Society (whose efforts in this cause have been thus far both enlightened and successful,) to advance that great interest. The report of that society, which will shortly be laid before you, points out the mode in which the interference of the state will be most productive of good.

It is a matter of very sincere gratification, that those institutions of charity—the hospital for the insane, the deaf and dumb asylum, and the school for the blind—which have heretofore received the fostering care of the state are more than equaling our warmest anticipations. I cheerfully recommend the very reasonable appropriations asked for each of them. And, as kindred to this, I would call your attention to the subject of establishing a school for the instruction of idiots. Ample experience in other states has established the gratifying fact, that a portion, at least, of this most unfortunate class of our citizens, are susceptible of improvement by suitable training and teaching, such as may be afforded them at proper institutions. I know of no object to which the funds of our treasury could be more properly applied than to the elevation of this class of our citizens. It will gratify me much if the legislature, in its wisdom, shall take the same view of this subject which I do, and vote the necessary funds for establishing an institution for the instruction of idiots.

It is my duty, also, to call your attention to the subject of the erection of a new penitentiary. Our present one is known to be already burthened with more inmates than can well be accommodated, for want of room. Another penitentiary, located somewhere in the northern part of the state, seems to be desired by our people; and I hope you will find it consistent with your sense of duty to provide for its erection.

Application will be made to you for aid in behalf of schools for the reform of juvenile delinquents. The practice of punishing offences committed by youths of tender age in the same manner as if committed by adults, is unquestionably evil in all its tendencies. Boys whose minds and characters are yet unformed, are thrown into jails with old and hardened offenders, from whom they receive lessons in villany and crime which qualify them for becoming adroit and confirmed criminals, when again let loose upon society. Whereas, if these youths were placed at an institution admitting none but juveniles, under the care and supervision of judicious teachers, and there taught, not only the ordinary branches of education, but those principles which lie at the foundation of all excellence in character, they might be reclaimed of their vicious habits and restored to society, prepared to become its ornaments and support. I commend this subject to your attentive consideration.

Our common school law, though established on a correct basis, is yet found, in some of its details, embarrassing and almost impracticable. It requires careful revision, and I refer you to the very excellent and extended report of the late superintendent of schools for the particulars in which it is deemed defective, in the hope that you will be able so to amend it as to remove all difficulty connected with its successful administration.

Our present system of banking laws operates as well, perhaps, as we had any reason to anticipate, yet it has hardly been tested sufficiently to authorize a decided opinion as to what its effect may be upon the business of our people in times of general pecuniary embarrassment and distress. I would suggest such amendment of those laws as experience may have shown to be necessary for the safety of bill holders, but without any material increase of the powers of banking corporations.

The inhabitants of our state were, in accordance with the requirements of the constitution, enumerated in the year 1855. It will, therefore, devolve upon you to form new senatorial and representative districts, so as to give the several portions of our state, their just share of the legislation of the country. A proper regard for the rights of the people, as well as the great principle of equal representation, which underlies all our republican institutions, would of itself dictate the necessity of so adjusting, from time to time, the representation of constituencies, as to prevent the great inequality which arises so often in a country augmenting in population so rapidly as ours. The framers of our constitution, acting upon the just and popular principle of equal representation, have provided that the legislature shall, at its next regular session after an enumeration has taken place, apportion the state into new districts. In performing this imperative duty, it may be well to consider whether the very large increase of population in our state since the constitution was adopted, amounting to more than half a million of people, does not require an increase of the number of representatives, as provided by the constitution. I would recommend such an increase, as not only dictated by considerations of convenience, but, also, as a matter of popular rights.

The Illinois Central Railroad Company, having obtained, for the purpose of the construction of that road, the large body of land granted to the state by the general government, and having in return undertaken certain obligations toward the state and the people, claims for that reason the particular attent on our legislative and executive departments. The flattering terms in which my distinguished predecessor has spoken of this enterprise, are, in my opinion, well deserved. I believe the work, when fully accomplished, will stand unrivalled, even in our country, proverbially renowned for bold and gigantic undertakings. It is a proud monument of the skill, sagacity and enlightened views of those who conceived and have thus far executed it. The pecuniary benefits to our state treasury, arising from the arrangement between the state and the company, are unmistakably great, promising as they do at no distant day, entirely to relieve our citizens of taxation for state purposes. But the beneficial effects of this great enterprise, upon the business of the people at large, and more particularly that portion of them in southern Illinois, who have heretofore labored under such serious difficulties in reference to markets, and commercial intercourse, but who will soon rival in all the elements of greatness their hitherto more favored fellow-citizens—are almost incalculable. I have the fullest confidence that you will extend every reasonable facility to this company in the prosecution of its enterprise—while at the same time you will guard with utmost caution the rights of people in this behalf.

It is but reasonable, perhaps, that I should here avail myself of the opportunity of distinguishing certain individuals who were prominent in the inception of this great enterprise. To Morris Ketchum, George Griswold, David A. Neal and Jonathan Sturges are we mainly indebted for the successful carrying out of this great project. Mr. Ketchum, especially was as active as he was efficient in organizing the company, and in devising ways and means for the prosecution of the work. In these things he was ably sustained by the other gentlemen named. And on more than one occasion, when the prospects of the enterprise were shrouded in gloom and doubt, and when nothing but the most bold and skillful policy could have saved it, these gentlemen risked their own private means to an extent which, had the enterprise failed, would have involved, some of them at least, in irretrievable ruin. I take pleasure, therefore, in placing these gentlemen before the state in the light which I know is proper to them, that our people in future may never forget to whom they are mostly indebted for the great work of the Central railroad.

In reflecting upon the various causes of our almost unparalleled prosperity as a state, we ought never to forget that a highly intelligent and industrious emigration has materially aided us in successfully developing the rich resources of our soil and building up our cities and villages. The spirit of our national and state constitutions, and the wholesome laws enacted by the early sages of our history, extend to emigrants, after a residence of reasonable time amongst us, if not all, yet many, and practically the most important rights of full citizenship. In the firm belief that the wise policy of our great statesmen is not only just in itself, but eminently adapted to inspire the settlers from foreign lands with attachment to our common country and its benign institutions, and to extinguish amongst them feelings of prejudice and separate nationality, I congratulate my fellow-citizens, so large a portion of whom have come from distant lands, upon the returning spirit of harmony and kindness between all classes of society, which but recently seemed, from a combination of causes, threatened with permanent disturbance.

The question of the extension of slavery into our new national territory, although not forming any part of state politics, was nevertheless so prominent a feature in the late canvass as to create the expectation, perhaps, that I should, on this occasion, say something concerning it.

Up to the time of the repeal of the Missouri compromise, I had ever considered the existence of slavery within the United States as an anomaly in our republican system, tolerated by a necessity springing from the actual presence of the institution among us when our constitution was adopted.

The provisions in the constitution for a slave bases of representation and for the reclamation of fugitives from labor I had supposed, and still suppose, were admitted there upon that necessity. And that such were also the views of a vast majority of the American people, both north and south, I had, until the introduction of the Kansas-Nebraska bill, never doubted.

But the introduction, progress and passage of that measure, together with the course of argument made to sustain it, forced me reluctantly to the conclusion that, if finally successful, slavery is no longer to be considered or treated as anomalous in our system, but is rather, thenceforward, to be a leading and favorite element of society, to be politically recognised as such, and to which all else must bend and conform. This conclusion is strengthened, not a little, by the subsequent administration of the measure, in the same hands which originated and matured it. Considering that we are an intelligent people, living in an enlightened age, and professing the peaceful doctrines of Christianity, and a love of liberty above all things earthly, it may well be doubted whether, when the world's history shall have been written to its close, it will contain a more extraordinary page than that which shall record the history of Kansas in 1855 and 1856.

Forced to the conclusion stated, a large portion of our fellow-citizens, myself among them, have resisted the consummation as we best could; and believing that not the fate of the negro alone, but the liberties of the white man—of all men, are involved in the issue, we shall continue to resist according to our best ability.

In doing this we shall ever be careful neither to forget nor disregard the value of the Union, the obligations of the constitution, nor even the courtesies due our brethren of the south.

Our present revenue is ample for all our purposes. It is fair to presume that, with reasonably economical management on the part of the officers of our state, we shall forever, hereafter, escape the imputation of delinquency in the payment of our debts. I recommend urgently upon you the most rigid economy, in which, be assured, you shall have my most cheerful aid and support. By such means we shall, in a very few years, have extinguished our state debt, when Illinois will stand before the world in a most enviable attitude. To accomplish this, it is but necessary that we pursue the system so happily inaugurated by my immediate predecessor—ever bearing in mind that economy is the true secret of national as well as individual prosperity.

Called to the executive chair without any desire on my part for such a position of responsibility, I assume the duties with confidence, not in any ability of my own, but in the knowledge that I shall be assisted by the counsels of good men, experienced in the affairs of state, and by the cheerful and hearty co-operation of the whole people, in all laudable efforts to develop her material wealth and advance her civilization. If a kind Providence shall spare my life for the term to which the people have elected me, I shall hope to retire from the office, carrying with me the consciousness of having contributed, as far as was in my power, to the development of the wealth, and the high moral and social position of our noble state.

That our high hopes and expectations in regard to the future greatness of our state may be fully realized, let us work for its consummation, with that harmony and mutual good feeling which insure success—trusting that an over-ruling, but always kind Providence will smile upon our efforts, and bless us with peace and prosperity, and a continuance to ourselves and our posterity of the blessings of constitutional liberty.

WM. H. BISSELL.

The memorial of Indiana Yearly Meeting, composed of that portion of the religious society of Friends residing in Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and the western part of Ohio, respectfully represents:

That being deeply impressed with the evils of intemperance, we have believed it our duty again to appear before you, and respectfully ask of you the enactment of such laws on the subject as will most effectually prevent the sale and use of all intoxicating liquors, as a beverage, within your state. We feel that to your enlightened body there is no necessity for us to attempt to portray the desolating effects arising therefrom, both on the morals of the community and in the family relations, for of this you cannot fail to be aware; but we would simply call your attention to the responsibility confided in you for the enactment of such laws as are best calculated to promote the prosperity and happiness of those you have been chosen to represent.

Signed by direction and on behalf of the Yearly Meeting aforesaid, held at Richmond, in Wayne county, Indiana, on the 7th of the tenth month, 1856.

The charter creates certain persons a corporation, with power to sue and be sued, to purchase, hold and convey real and personal property, to carry on the business of manufacturing, milling, all kinds of mechanical business, agriculture and merchandising, to act by their trustees therein designated in the premises, with the power of removal as therein prescribed, and with authority to pass such by-laws concerning the management of their property and business as they deemed proper, not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of this state. None of the powers in said charter are of a municipal character, but all relate to the private business affairs of the people of said colony.

The only question the committee have deemed it advisable or necessary to consider, is the power of this legislature to repeal or modify said charter against the consent of the corporation. The question is one of grave import on account of the large number of private charters with extraordinary and dangerous powers, so freely granted at every session of the legislature, that may be a blessing or a curse to the communities in which they exist.

The power to create private corporations does not imply the right to destroy them after they are accepted by the persons constituting the corporation and rights have vested in and under them. The constitution of the United States and of this state prohibit the state from passing any law impairing the obligation of contracts. It has, after the most elaborate discussion and consideration by the profoundest jurists of our country, become well settled law that the charter of a private corporation, whether civil or eleemosynary, is an executed contract between the government and the corporators, and that the legislature cannot repeal, impair or alter it against the consent or default of the corporation, judicially ascertained and declared.

A distinction has been, however, taken between private corporations and public, such as counties, towns, parishes and cities, which, existing for public purposes only, the legislature has, under proper limitations, a right to change, modify, enlarge or restrain—securing, however, the property for the use of those for whom it was purchased. Public corporations may and often do have private rights and interests, and as to such rights and interests they are to be regarded in the same light as individuals, and are beyond legislative control. Angel & Ames on Corp., sec. 767, and note 4. 4 Scam. Ill. R., R. 186. 1 Gil. R. 672.

Again, it is provided in sec. 8 of art. XIII of our state constitution, that “no freeman shall be deprived of his property but by the judgment of his peers or the laws of the land.” This provision of the magna charta of Great Britain, incorporated in our state constitution, would be of no intrinsic value if the legislature had the power to take the property of one individual or corporation, against the consent of the owner, and by an arbitrary and ex parte act transfer the title.

Under what circumstances the rights of property shall be decreed to be forfeited, and involuntary transfers enforced by final judgment in any given case, is a matter that can only be properly adjudicated and settled by the judicial tribunals of the country, after examination of the facts in conformity with the principles of law. Acts of judicial legislation are void, as being against the letter and spirit of our state constitution, and have been so declared repeatedly by the supreme court of this state.

For these and other reasons your committee are of opinion that the courts of justice of this state are the only proper place for all persons interested in said corporation to appeal for a redress of any real or supposed grievances they may suffer in the premises, and that this legislature has no constitutional power to grant the desired relief.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Mr. Carlin, from the committee on finance, to which had been referred a communication from the president of the Springfield Gas Light Company, made a written report thereon, with a resolution, as follows:

To the State Senate :

The finance committee, to which was referred the communication of N. H. Ridgely, president of the Springfield Gas Light Company, in relation to the chandelier now suspended in the Senate chamber, have had the same under consideration, and would respectfully report, that by the provisions of an act entitled "An act to amend the act creating the Springfield Gas Light Company, approved March 1, 1854," the governor, treasurer and auditor were authorized and empowered, if in their opinion the public interest would be promoted thereby, to contract for the putting up of the necessary fixtures for lighting with gas the state house, governor's house and public grounds.

The same act further provides that a sufficient sum of money for the above purposes be appropriated, to be drawn upon the warrant of the auditor out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated. In pursuance of the provisions of this act the officers aforesaid directed Mr. Ridgely to procure the necessary chandeliers, burners and fixtures. They were accordingly ordered by him from a Boston manufacturer. The accounts for all which, except the chandelier in question, were approved and paid. The officers of state declining to pay for that article, not as your committee understand upon the ground that it did not cost the amount charged, or that it was not worth that sum, but upon the ground that it was unnecessarily expensive, and stating that they would not feel justified in paying for it unless they had some expression of approval from your honorable body.

The additional facts elicited by the investigations of your committee are as follows:

The manufacturer's price in Boston for the chandelier is $1,100, the cost of its transportation from that city to this, $50, and the cost of putting it up in its present position $50 more, making in the aggregate $1,200. Mr. Ridgely also informs your committee that the expense of taking down, boxing up and shipping back the article will cost $100 more, in consequence of which he proposes to take one thousand dollars for the chandelier.

In view of all the facts and circumstances connected with this subject, your committee have determined to recommend for the adoption of the Senate the following resolution:

Resolved, That it is the opinion of the Senate that the officers of state may with propriety purchase said chandelier for the sum last above mentioned.

All of which is respectfully submitted by the committee.

Mr. Gillespie moved to amend the resolution by striking out $1,000, and inserting in lieu thereof $1,200.

Resolved by the people of the state of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly, That the union of these states, under the constitution thereof, has more than fulfilled the most enthusiastic expectations of its founders and fathers; that under its fostering care the American people have rapidly passed from a state of national infancy, obscurity and poverty, to the rank and power of the first nation of the earth, and, in the meantime, have realized a degree of internal prosperity and happiness beyond all former example—supplanting the forest and prairie by cultivated fields and teeming cities, covering our lakes, rivers and seas with the swift-winged monsters of commerce, checkering the land with railroads, canals and magnetic wires, and blessing all with plenty and security.

Resolved, That the Union must be preserved, and that the people of this state will heartily and fearlessly contribute their best endeavors to administer and perpetuate it in the spirit of mutual compromise and concession in which it was formed, and that they will also promptly and efficiently co-operate in carrying the laws of the national legislature into full and successful effect.

Resolved, That our liberty and independence are based upon the right of the people to form for themselves such government as they may choose; that this great privilege, the birthright of freemen, the gift of heaven, secured to us by the blood of our ancestors, ought to be extended to future generations, and no limitation ought to be applied to this power in the organization in any territory of the United States, of either a territorial government or a state constitution, provided the government so established shall be republican and in conformity with the constitution of the United States.

Resolved, That we recognize the superiority of the white man over the negro, in the history as well as in the marked difference which distinguishes the physical and intellectual organizations of members of the two races, and that in our opinion the admission of the negro to terms of social and political equality with the white man, under our constitution and laws, would be attended with the most pernicious and dangerous consequences, not only to the social, moral and mental capabilities of the white race, but to the cause of free government and progressional civilization; therefore,

Resolved, That we are unalterably opposed to the admission of the black race to terms of social and political equality with the white race, and that we would regard with feelings of abhorrence the amalgamation of the two races.

A bill for "An act to incorporate the Illinois River Improvement Company," as amended by them.

The House amends said bill as follows, viz:

Amend sec. 6, line 16, by inserting after the word "governor," the following: "Wright Casey, Samuel Ryder, L. E. Worcester, John McCluskey, Stephen Hambaugh, Jesse Darnelle, H. L. Bryant, Henry E. Dummer, James M. Ruggles, William S. Maus, James Dougherty, Henry Schnebley, Wm. Maxwell, Edward Pulcifer, Alex'r Hitchcock, Cyrus Bryant, Thompson Maple, Charles Walker, Stephen A. Douglas, William A. Thornton, W. Milner Roberts, William H. Swift, William Gooding, William B. Ogden and George W. Wait, which said board shall meet at Springfield, on a notice of the time and place of meeting, given by the governor, and if a majority of those present shall approve said plan they shall file their approval in the office of secretary of state, and thereupon said corporation may proceed to construct said work in accordance with the provisions of this bill. If at such meeting a majority of those present disapprove said plan they shall file their disapproval in the office of secretary of state, and thereupon the state shall pay the expense of such preliminary survey, not exceeding the sum of four thousand dollars; and in no event shall the state be liable for any compensation to said board or any other expense in connection with said matter."

Add to section 8, as follows:

"Provided, that said company shall and it is hereby made their duty to make such rules and regulations as will enable the farmers owning scows, rafts, flat-boats, skiffs and canoes, when used by themselves, to pass over the dams of said company, in high water, free of charge, so far as the same can be done without injury to said dams or other works, and such as will also protect said company in obtaining tolls from all other persons, except those thus excepted."

"Sec. 12. The state hereby reserves the right, and the powers hereby conferred upon said company are upon the condition that the state of Illinois, or the United States, or the state of Illinois and the United States, may resume the rights hereby conferred, and may take said river and the improvements made by said company by paying to said company the amount of the aggregate cost and expense thereof, together with twelve (12) per cent. annual interest thereon, to be computed semi-annually, on all moneys expended from time of such expenditure, and semi-annually thereafter, and added to said cost, and shall also assume the payment of the bonds issued by said company, which said bonds shall be considered as a portion of said cost, less the net receipts and earnings of the said company—it being the intention hereof that said river and

Your committee, to which was referred the petition of J. M. Higgins, beg leave to make the following report:

The undersigned would respectfully submit to the Senate, that James M. Higgins has claims against the state for services rendered as superintendent of the Illinois State Hospital for the Insane during the pendency of a legal question as to his right to perform said services, embracing a period of more than nine months. That we honestly believe he was in the line of public as well as private duty in determining, to submit said question to the decision of our courts. That in this attempt to vindicate his own personal and also official rights he was backed by the sentiment of a large majority of the people who were conversant with the facts, and to strengthen the plausibility of his position he was sustained in the court below and by a minority of the supreme court.

We have further evidence that he assented to a temporary reduction in his salary and even to the payment of money out of his own resources in the prosecution of the work on the hospital building, in view of the slender means at the disposal of the trustees and their great desire at the time to economise; with the repeated and distinct understanding, however, that he should be at a future period indemnified by an adequate increase of salary. That by the discontinuance of the board by whom these promises were made and his premature removal from office, he has not been permitted to realize the indemnity promised, and has consequently been subjected to serious pecuniary losses, which we believe should in some way be made good to him by the state.

We would further say that the present term of the legislature being near its close, we therefore deem it improper to take any further action in the case.

HUGH L. SUTPHIN,
W. H. CARLIN.
